Notes on group projects

1. The projects are due by email by noon on Dec. 7.

2. Each file should be fully commented.

3. Each file should include a comment at the beginning indicating who the author is. If you have files where different methods were written by different people, that should be indicated as well.

4. Each project should include a README.txt file that indicates how the program is supposed to operate and how it is invoked.

5. If you would like people to be able to play with your program at your presentation on Tuesday, then you need to give me an appropriate jar file by Monday at noon so I can put it on the website.
